Ash tree cull stops — for now

EMERALD ASH BORER: Injections may combat killer bugs

By CHIP MARTIN THE LONDON FREE PRESS

Last Updated: April 17, 2012 7:39am

A stay of execution is coming for over 1,000 London ash trees city hall was going to fell this year.

The death of these trees is the DIRECT RESULT of PROHIBITING pest control products used in the Urban Landscape.

Now, City of London is CHEMICAL-FREE with NO trees.

The CARNAGE continues with NEEDLESS, SENSELESS, and MALICIOUS PROHIBITION.

Wait, London, Ontario is actually considering other approaches like those used in other cities? That is dangerous and radical thinking. I'm not so sure we're ready for that.

I'm joking but I am consistently surprised and dismayed by how London, Ontario residents seem to know so little about life and its potential, as it is lived outside of London, Ontario. The naïveté is astounding. But, I try to see it as entertainment so that it is not too depressing.

Brent is right...no special treatment for the west end (just Westmount...). I live in the Optimist Park neighbourhood in Byron. All of our (healthy looking) Ash trees are gone and it was done without warning. Mine was fairly small, so I'm not too bummed, but there were really big ones that were cut that probably should have been treated. I'm not surprised, as I've never actually known our city planners and managers to do too many things correctly. I just hope there is not a moratorium on replanting.

the tree they cut down on my lot was 30 plus years old and dying very quick, other then the gaping wound to my front lawn from grinding the stump, they did not de-value my house 20%. as usual the free press leaves half the story out, in the east end, where trees have been cut down, new ones have been planted

The west end gets no special treatment. Byron has just been denuded of ash trees.

Many young healthy trees on Optimist Park Drive, Southdale west of Boler, Birchwood, etc...were just slashed down with no warning. Nice to know they could have been saved. Once again the city has the cart before the horse.

I've been told Orser wants to put giant fake umbrellas in their place.

Sean... there's no special treatment for the west enders, reality is ,people in the west end pay alot more taxes than those in the east... you get what you pay for... you want more, live in the west or north end
