

Canadian Cancer Society
Société canadienne du cancer

Join the fight.
1 888 939-3333 | www.cancer.ca

Groups ask why risk unnecessary exposure to cosmetic pesticides when there is a threat to health?

07 November 2011
VANCOUVER -

One of the groups, the Canadian Association of Physicians for the Environment, is expected to submit new evidence linking pesticide exposure to childhood cancers.

Dr Bruce Lanphear, Clinician Scientist, Child & Family Research Institute at BC Children's Hospital and Professor, Faculty of Health Sciences at Simon Fraser University, will be giving evidence about the impact of pesticides on learning disabilities in children.

"Why would the BC government continue to put the health of British Columbians and especially children at risk?" said Barbara Kaminsky, CEO, Canadian Cancer Society BC & Yukon.

"We are only one of 19 organizations who have come forward to urge the BC government to enact a comprehensive ban. Public support is much broader."

A poll in February of 2011 revealed that more than 70% of British Columbians believe exposure to cosmetic pesticides increases the risk of cancer and threatens the environment.

Ms Kaminsky will give evidence at the Morris J Wosk Centre on Tuesday November 8th from 2:00pm-2:30pm.

The Hon Bill Bennett, MLA Kootenay is chairing the Special Committee on Cosmetic Pesticides.

END

Ms Kathryn Seely, Director of Public Issues, at the Canadian Cancer Society, BC & Yukon, who is presenting with Ms Kaminsky, is available for interview prior to the hearings. 604 675 7108 Cell: 604 999 4659.

Dr Cathy Vakil, of Canadian Association of Physicians for the Environment is also available for comment on 613-766-7385 or

613-353-3051

The Canadian Cancer Society is a national community-based organization of volunteers whose mission is the eradication of cancer and the enhancement of the quality of life of people living with cancer. When you want to know more about cancer, visit our website www.cancer.ca or call our toll-free, bilingual Cancer Information Service at 1 888 939-3333.

-30-

For more information, please contact:

Kerstin Ring

Senior Manager, Communications

Canadian Cancer Society, National office

Phone: (416) 934-5664

2011 Canadian Cancer Society.
All rights reserved.

British Columbia & Yukon printed: 09 November 2011

The Canadian Cancer Society only provides information that is general in nature and cannot guarantee that it is error-free or complete. The Canadian Cancer Society is not responsible for the quality of the information or services provided by another organization, nor does it endorse any service, product, treatment or therapy. A qualified healthcare professional should be consulted before making a medical decision.