

HomeCOP17: Mess of the Durban shills\* »

Suzuki goes full Grinch

David Suzuki thinks that telling kids Santa is in danger from global warming is a great fundraising idea at Christmas:

The North Pole, once a wintry wonderland, is no longer safe for Santa's Workshop.

Climate change is melting the snow and ice, and the rising water is getting too close for comfort. Santa must relocate — fast — to make sure that all the nice boys and girls still have a Happy Holiday.

You can help by buying Santa the supplies he needs to land safely in a new home.

Better yet, buy them as green gifts for friends and family to show you're thinking about them — and the planet — this holiday season.

When hippies aren't busy detonating kids, they're working hard to wreck Christmas. For money.

David Suzuki has evolved from tenth-level maggot to Grinch.

★★★★★ 15 Votes

Be Sociable, Share!

By dailybayonet | November 30th, 2011 | Category: Clueless Targets, Hippies, Warmists | 7 comments

7 comments to Suzuki goes full Grinch

Richard A

November 30, 2011 at 8:44 pm

Well Mr Suzuki intelligent kids know Santa is a myth, so these same intelligent kids will now deduce from your nonsensical statement that global warming is also a myth!

Bernd Felsche

November 30, 2011 at 8:11 pm

?From the site:

You won't actually receive a North Pole Snow Globe, or any of the other items on this page. You are purchasing what people call a "symbolic gift" as a means of donating money to support the work of David Suzuki Foundation.

So send your ...symbolic dollars to the Foundation. You know... the ones on your keyboard. Put a few thousand "$" in an email to the contact address. I'm sure that they'll appreciate your symbolic support.

You know that it's all a cover-up. The real reason why Santa has to move his workshop is due to the increasing number of polar bears; or rather; the "mysteriously" diminishing population of elves. Polar bears don't just live on Rum and Coke.

Just another unintended consequence of poorly thought-through environmental policies.

DaninVan

November 30, 2011 at 7:53 pm

You do realize that your adverts are HUGELY distracting?!!

<http://www.rhodesbread.com/recipes/view/1613>

:)

wallyj

November 30, 2011 at 5:50 pm

Years ago there was a National Lampoon cover that had a guy holding a gun to a puppy's head, with the line, "Buy this magazine or the dog'd dead", something like that anyways. That was tasteless but funny, and only the future PETA people didn't get it.

Suzuki's latest appeal is pathetic. He is appealing to children to pester their parents into supporting his lifestyle, which is quite likely based on fraud. If that maggot ever becomes a fly, I'd pull a wing off and throw him into a warm breeze.

Alix James

November 30, 2011 at 2:34 pm

Could have sworn that Santa was magical. I doubt he'll have much trouble coping.

Then again, according to the warmists, the Coelacanth, a species that has been around for 400 million years, is somehow at risk due to ~~global warming climate change climate disruption~~ whatever we call it this week.

Al_in_Ottawa

November 30, 2011 at 12:37 pm

What a shameless creep. This behaviour is lower than the bottom of the Marianas Trench.

So how is Mr Suzuki going to deliver these products in a carbon neutral way? Commerce requires transportation and transportation causes CO2 emissions. I guess the CO2 doesn't count if the profits go to Mr Suzuki's foundation.

The day David Suzuki dies, don't wait for my phone call. Don't wait for my email. | Five Feet of Fury

November 30, 2011 at 11:23 am

[...] Just show up at my place around 8pm for the party. (BYOB.) [...]