The David Suzuki Foundation is governed by an exceptional volunteer board of directors. Their considerable knowledge and expertise from a wide range of backgrounds, including education, public engagement, law, finance, business, economics, environment and social justice, guides the strategic direction of the Foundation. In addition to considerable time commitments, our board members contribute financially to the Foundation. A summary of each board member's expertise and background is presented below.

Dr. Tara Cullis, President and Co-Founder

An award-winning writer and former faculty member of Harvard University, Dr. Cullis is president and co-founder of the David Suzuki Foundation. She has been a key player in environmental movements in the Amazon, Southeast Asia, and British Columbia. She was a founder of the Turning Point Initiative of Coastal First Nations in BC (now known as the Coastal First Nations Great Bear Initiative) which links the First Nations of the Central and North Coast of British Columbia into an historic alliance, protecting the ecology of the region known as the Great Bear Rainforest. Tara has been adopted and named by the Haida, the Gitga'at, the Heiltsuk and the Nam'gis First Nations.

An active campaigner and remarkable organizer, Tara founded or co-founded nine organizations before starting the David Suzuki Foundation in 1990.

James Hoggan, Chair

Jim Hoggan is one of Canada's most respected public relations professionals and the president and owner of Hoggan & Associates, an award winning strategic communications firm specializing in crisis management and stakeholder engagement for government, industry and non-profit organizations.

Jim is the co-founder of Stonehouse Standing Circle, an innovative public-engagement and communications think-tank and the influential website DeSmogBlog, chosen as one of Time Magazine's Best Blogs for 2011 for its work exposing corporate misinformation campaigns.

Jim serves as a trustee of the Dalai Lama Center for Peace and Education and is the former chair of Climate Project Canada — the Canadian chapter of Al Gore's global education and advocacy organization. Jim currently sits on Shell Global's External Review Committee as an expert adviser on their annual sustainability reporting. In 2009, he led the Province of British Columbia's Green Energy Advisory Task Force on Community Relations and First Nations Partnerships.

Jim is the author of three books, Do the Right Thing: PR Tips for Skeptical Public (2009), Climate Cover-Up: The Crusade to Deny Global Warming (2009) and Polluted Public Square (Fall 2013). Jim speaks, writes, and presents widely on public attitudes towards sustainability, climate change, and the environment.

Jim has been a member of the David Suzuki Foundation Board since 2001 and has served as Chair since 2007.

David Miller, Vice Chair

Mr. Miller has extensive governance experience and is a leading advocate for the creation of sustainable urban economies. David's track record as Chair of the C40 Cities Climate Leadership Group and as Mayor of the City of Toronto, both demonstrate his commitment and ability to fight climate change with sustainable city building initiatives. Examples include: working with the World Bank and other international organizations to strengthen the capacity of City governments to act against climate change and initiating the Climate Change, Clean Air and Sustainable Energy Action Plan to reduce Toronto's carbon footprint.

Currently, David advises on international clean technology and renewable energy practices as Counsel, International Business and Sustainability at the law firm of Aird and Berlis LLP. David has a degree from Harvard University in Economics and a law degree from the University of Toronto. He is the Future of Cities Global Fellow at the Polytechnic Institute of New York University and focuses on championing sustainable cities and addressing technological solutions to urban problems.

David joined the David Suzuki Foundation board in 2010 and was appointed Vice Chair (Eastern) in 2012. David is Chair of the Friends of David Suzuki Foundation and Chair of the David Suzuki Institute.

Elaine A. Wong, Treasurer

Elaine Wong, one of WXN's Top 100 Most Powerful Women in Canada, is the Executive Vice President of Strategic Development for Westport, the global leader in natural gas engines. Elaine joined Westport in 2001 as the Director of Corporate Performance and in 2003 became the Chief Financial Officer responsible for the company's financial planning and analysis. She served as Westport's representative on the board of directors of Canadian Business for Social Responsibility, a non-profit, national membership organization of Canadian companies who have made a commitment to operate in a socially, environmentally, and financially responsible manner. Elaine was also a director of CWI until February 2012. Elaine is on the CICA Sustainability Board.

Prior to joining Westport, Ms. Wong was the Director of Corporate Performance for TELUS Enterprise Solutions, an information technology company with offices across Canada and in Asia, where she was involved in strategy, planning, mergers and acquisitions, and other corporate development projects. Elaine has her Chartered Accountant (1993) and Certified Public Accountant (Illinois 2001) designations, as well as a Bachelor of Commerce Degree with Honours (1990) from the University of British Columbia.

Elaine joined the David Suzuki Foundation Board in 2009. Elaine is Chair of the Finance and Audit Committee and Chair of the Investment Committee for the David Suzuki Foundation.

Miles G. Richardson

Stephen R. Bronfman

Mr. Bronfman is Executive Chairman of Claridge Inc. and a private business executive with world-wide interests in sports, entertainment, broadcasting and communications. He carries on his family's tradition of important philanthropic contributions as a governor of the Jewish General Hospital in Montreal, director of the Saidye Bronfman Centre for the Arts, the CRB Foundation, president of the Samuel and Saidye Bronfman Family Foundation and sits on the board of the Canadian Centre for Architecture.

Stephen is co-chair, with his wife, of the Claudine and Stephen Bronfman Family Foundation which supports creative projects affecting young people in the field of environment, culture and Jewish community life. Stephen's foundation supported the Trans Canada Trail Discovery Program installation of over 2,000 interpretative panels along the trail. Stephen attended Williams College and Concordia University where he formed his deep commitment and subsequent involvement with environmental protection.

Stephen has been a longstanding supporter of the David Suzuki Foundation and has been a board member since 1996. Stephen is Chair of the Development Committee for the David Suzuki Foundation.

Stephanie Green

Severn Cullis-Suzuki

Severn Cullis-Suzuki has been active in environmental and social justice since she was a child. At 12 years old, Severn closed a Plenary Session at 1992's Rio Earth Summit with a powerful speech to the political representatives. Since then she has continued to speak, write and fight for intergenerational justice around the world. Severn returned to Rio 20 years later, this time as a Champion for the We Canada movement at the Earth Summit 2012.

Severn is the author of Tell the World, and editor of Notes from Canada's Young Activists: a Generation Stands up for Change.

Severn co-hosted Suzuki's Nature Quest, a television series for children on the Discovery Channel in 2002 and is the host of the APTN series Samaqan — Water Stories about First Nations and water issues, now in its third season.

Severn has a Bachelor of Science in Ecology and Evolutionary Biology from Yale University, and a Master of Science in Ethnoecology from the University of Victoria, where she studied with Kwakwaka'wakw elders. She is proud to be an adopted member of the Haida Nation and Heiltsuk Nations, and to carry names from the Nuchaanulth and Kwakwaka'wakw peoples. Since moving to Haida Gwaii in 2008, Severn has been studying the Haida language, which she hopes to teach her two sons. Severn is a Board member of the Haida Gwaii Higher Education Society, and a Spark for the Girls Action Foundation.

Severn joined the David Suzuki Foundation Board in 2004.

Dr. Peter Victor

Dr. Peter Victor is an economist who has worked on environmental issues for over 40 years as an academic, consultant and public servant. Dr. Victor was one of the founders of the emerging discipline of ecological economics and was the first President of the Canadian Society for Ecological Economics. Currently, he is collaborating with Professor Tim Jackson (UK) on research into 'ecological macroeconomics'. In 2011 Dr. Victor's work on ecological economics and managing without growth was recognised through the award of the Molson Prize in the Social Sciences by the Canada Council for the Arts.

Dr. Victor is a Professor in Environmental Studies at York University and from 1996 to 2001 was Dean of the Faculty of Environmental Studies. This followed several years as Assistant Deputy Minister of the Environmental Sciences and Standards Division in the Ontario Ministry of the Environment. His many contributions included leading the final development and implementation of Ontario's Environmental Bill of Rights and the final design of the regulation of toxic discharges under the Municipal and Industrial Strategy for Abatement.

Dr. Victor has served on numerous boards and advisory committees and he has appeared as an expert witness before various Commissions. Currently he is chair of the Greenbelt Council of Ontario and an active member of Statistics Canada's Advisory Committee on the National Accounts and Environmental Statistics Advisory Committee, and the Academic Advisory Panel of TruCost. He is also a member of the Board of the New Economics Institute and the Board of the Centre for the Advancement of a Steady-State Economy. Dr. Victor also serves on the editorial advisory board of several academic journals.

Peter joined the David Suzuki Foundation Board in 2007 and is a member of the Program Committee.

Dr. Samantha Nutt

Samantha Nutt is an award-winning humanitarian, bestselling author and acclaimed public speaker. A medical doctor and a founder of the renowned international humanitarian organization War Child, Dr Nutt has worked with children and their families at the frontline of many of the world's major crises — from Iraq to Afghanistan, Somalia to the Democratic Republic of Congo, and Sierra Leone to Darfur, Sudan. A leading authority on current affairs, war, international aid and foreign policy, Dr Nutt is one of the most intrepid and recognized voices in the humanitarian arena. With a career that has spanned more than two decades and dozens of conflict zones, her international work has benefited many thousands of war-affected children globally. .

Samantha is the author of the critically-acclaimed book Damned Nations: Greed, Guns, Armies and Aid, which was a #1 bestseller in Canada. Her work on behalf of war-affected communities around the world has been widely recognized. Samantha is a recipient of Canada's Top 40 under 40 Award (Globe and Mail) and has been featured by Time Magazine as one of "Canada's Five Leading Activists." She received the Order of Ontario in 2010, and was appointed to the Order of Canada in 2011, for her contributions to improving the plight of young people in the world's worst conflict zones. Dr. Samantha Nutt is a staff physician at Women's College Hospital in Toronto and is an Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of Toronto.

Samantha joined the David Suzuki Foundation Board in 2009.

Sarika Cullis-Suzuki

Sarika Cullis-Suzuki is passionate about oceans, fish and the conservation of biodiversity. Her MSc on global fisheries with Daniel Pauly at UBC's Fisheries Centre culminated in a speech at the United Nations where she revealed her shocking findings on the state of the high seas. Her work in oceans has taken her from French Polynesia to the Gulf of Mexico, and she is now working on her graduate research at the University of York, UK, focusing on the effects of anthropogenic noise on fish along the BC Coast.

Away from school, Sarika works in environmental media, hoping to inspire viewers and listeners to effect change. She currently stars in "The Suzuki Diaries," part of the CBC series The Nature of Things.

Sarika joined the David Suzuki Foundation Board in 2011.

In Memory of Jim Fulton, Executive Director (1993-2004)

When Jim first stormed into the tiny office that contained this then-fledgling foundation, he injected an air of energy, of possibility and, often most important, of bonhomie, that came to define the DSF. With Jim in the room, there was always a sense that, whatever we did, things would probably turn out for the better.

The David Suzuki Foundation is, today, the most influential environmental organization in the country — one of the most influential on the continent — and this is in large part due to Jim's legacy of credible, compelling and unquestionably intelligent policy analysis and advice. It's a legacy that will continue to serve this organization as we seek to serve all Canadians and, through the pursuit of sustainability, all the citizens of the world.

On behalf of those people — all the beneficiaries in all the years to come — the Board of Directors of the David Suzuki Foundation would like to say that we are deeply grateful: we are thankful to have called Jim Fulton a friend and colleague, grateful for his leadership and, perhaps above all, hopeful that his legacy will help guide us into a more truly sustainable future.
