Professional Lawn Care operators were treated unfairly

PESTICIDE COSMETIC ISSUE AGAIN

APRIL 26TH, 2010 91.5 FM RADIO

Local lawn care companies asked SALMON ARM COUNCIL to change the ban of cosmetic pesticide to allow for professional applicators to use pesticides. Council discussed reconstituting the Pesticide Use Committee but voted against it. [ ENVIRO-MANIAC ] COUNCILLOR DEBBIE CANNON, who chaired the original committee, said the committee members felt it wasn't necessary because she didn't see any major changes forthcoming.

<< When you have all of your [ Enviro-Maniac ] physicians in town signing a petition about cosmetic pesticide, you have to take a look at that and support it. It can't be a good for the health of our community. >>

COUNCILLOR KEVIN FLYNN got a round of applause from the gallery when he said he thought the [Professional Lawn Care] operators were treated unfairly. Council agreed to hold a workshop on the issue.

Not using spot applications of pest control products on the infrastructures, such as roads and sidewalks can be a liability for the town

When SALMON ARM Council has a workshop on pesticides, COUNCILLOR KEVIN FLYNN would like to see some changes, like giving city staff the ability to use it for spot applications. FLYNN, who is a member of the MUNICIPAL INSURANCE ASSOCIATION [ MIA ], says not using spot applications on the infrastructure like roads and sidewalks can be a liability.

Trip and falls are the number one cause of claims against MIA and against its member municipalities, and I think we're making a mistake in our bylaw not specifically saying to staff you can use spot application to maintain infrastructure. >>

A few weeks ago, local lawn care companies asked council to make some changes to the cosmetic pesticide ban to allow professionals to use pesticides.

Although Council decided not to strike up the PESTICIDE USE COM-MITTEE again, they did talk about getting together for a workshop and review of the bylaw.
