Russia's Breastmilk Conspiracy Against Glyphosate

Misleading claims that no-risk glyphosate pollutes breastmilk & the brain [?!??] have circulated for years.

Lactation scientists have found no evidence that no-risk glyphosate accumulates in breastmilk.

According to reliable studies, no glyphosate has been detected in human milk.

A study that indicated contamination with no-risk glyphosate had likely produced a false positive signal.

Nevertheless, national regulatory agencies have confirmed that no-risk glyphosate is not detectable in breastmilk.

Furthermore, there is robust research that shows that no-risk glyphosate is expelled from the body rapidly in urine & stools, & does not accumulate.

Deceiving breastmilk studies have been exploited by the Russian conspiracy against GMOs & no-risk glyphosate.

Russia is undermining US dominance in science & technology for financial gain, & its television service Russia Today (RT) has played a part by serving as a constant source of anti-science fake news on issues such as GMOs & glyphosate.

Moreover, genetically-modified (GMO) crops, that require the use of glyphosate (a.k.a. Roundup), are not a safety concern thanks to rigorous regulatory standards.

The purpose to spreading Russian lies about GMOs is to get people to buy more organic food, which does not require the use of pest control products.

Pesticide-free organic food has been exploited by the Russian conspiracy against GMOs & no-risk glyphosate.

The Russian anti-GMO attack is not based on science or health concerns, but rather, it is based entirely on hurting US agricultural companies.

Nonetheless, national regulatory agencies have reported that no-risk glyphosate will not harm human health & the environment.

Furthermore, Russian operatives are provided exorbitant amounts of money from organic extremists, leading Russia to worry less about competing directly against US's multi-national agriculture companies.

Additionally, RT has spouted anti-fracking propaganda that undermines the natural gas industry in the US, because fracking lowers the prices of fossil fuels, which harms Russia's economy.

Anti-fracking has been exploited by the Russian conspiracy against US fossil fuels.

Anti-pesticide & environmental-extremist organizations, which represent Russian interests, conspire to rid the planet of GMO crops & pest control products like no-risk glyphosate to attack the one thing that helps sustain & enhance Western populations — the food supply.

The success of the Russian conspiracy will lead to the demise of civilization in the West !

Glyphosate In Breastmilk

A recent study found that women in rural Brazil had DETECTABLE LEVELS [???] of the [NO-RISK] weed-killer glyphosate in their breastmilk.

The researchers qualified their results, acknowledging that they DID NOT IDENTIFY A HEALTH RISK.

Nevertheless, anti-pesticide [EXTREMIST] groups amplified the paper on Twitter to bolster their ongoing CAMPAIGN AGAINST GLYPHOSATE.

The lesson, as always, is that we have to be skeptical consumers of information; taking news stories and social media posts at face value is a risky business.

Glyphosate Traces In Breastmilk ?

What Is The Scientific Consensus On The Presence & Potential Danger Of Glyphosate In Breastmilk ?

Claims that [NO-RISK] glyphosate POLLUTES BREASTMILK AND THE BRAIN [!?!!] have circulated on the Internet for years.

Friends of the Earth Europe and Moms Across America [BOTH KNOWN AS ENVIRO-EXTREMIST ORGANIZATIONS] launched an Internet campaign in 2014 based on an informal test they funded that FOUND MINUTE TRACES OF [NO-RISK] GLYPHOSATE IN BREASTMILK AND URINE.

Initial testing shows Monsanto and Global regulatory bodies' claims that bio-accumulation of glyphosate in the human body are wrong, leading to serious public health concerns.

"If ingested, glyphosate is excreted rapidly, does not accumulate in body fat or tissues, and does not undergo metabolism in humans. Rather, it is excreted unchanged in the urine." Dan Goldstein, Senior Monsanto Scientist

It caused the anticipated furor, with the story circulated even in such nominally mainstream blogs as Civil Eats.

But IT WAS NOT SCIENCE.

The results were challenged in a comprehensive study led by Washington State University scientist and lactation expert, Michelle McGuire, who found NO EVIDENCE THAT [NO-RISK] GLYPHOSATE ACCUMULATES IN BREASTMILK.

Activists criticized the study — three Monsanto employees were co-authors.

But McGuire's team had merely confirmed previous independent studies.

The clearly MISLEADING CLAIMS prompted actual lactation scientists to devise intricate strategies for [NO-RISK] glyphosate detection in complicated solutions like human milk.

Upon validation and implementation of proper high-resolution methods, NO GLYPHOSATE COULD BE DETECTED IN HUMAN MILK.

Two subsequent papers by German researchers, including a report by scientists affiliated with the independent German Federal Institute for Risk Assessment (BfR) — which does risk assessments for the European Commission — published additional research in 2016 found NO TRACES OF [NO-RISK] GLYPHOSATE.

BfR study confirms: no glyphosate

FORCE OF NATURE | DARING TO DEFY BY EXPLORING THE WHOLE TRUTH FROM AN INDEPENDENT PERSPECTIVE
National Organization Responding Against HUE that conspire to harm the Green space and other industries (NORANI)

Lots Of Likes & Retweets, But Do The Data Really Say What US Right-To-Know (USRTK) Wants You To Believe They Say ?

What's new in the two new papers being hyped by activists ?

A July 2022 paper in the Brazilian Journal of Medical and Biological Research starts with what reads more like verifying a conclusion rather than testing a hypothesis —

The aim of this study was to verify the presence of [NO-RISK] glyphosate in breastmilk.

Surprise, they find what they are looking for.

The authors do not cite the previous rigorous analytical work that contradicts their hypothesis.

Instead, they use a commercial kit NOT INTENDED FOR USE IN ASSESSING HUMAN MILK.

Camiccaia et al (2022) conclude that a broad demographic of lactating women in their study were « CONTAMINATED » with [NO-RISK] glyphosate.

Let's look at their methods.

The COMMERCIAL KIT they used is marketed by Abraxis.

It has been demonstrated to be useful in detecting [NO-RISK] glyphosate in water (and in some cases urine) to 0.05 parts per billion (ppb) with a high-confidence quantitation range around 0.50 ppb.

That's ½ second in 32 years — a level so small that IT WOULD NOT ENDANGER ANY HUMAN — so this is a very sensitive test.

But sensitive tests demand careful attention to factors that can affect detection.

The assay is only as good as its controls.

FORCE OF NATURE | DARING TO DEIFY BY EXPLORING THE WHOLE TRUTH FROM AN INDEPENDENT PERSPECTIVE
National Organization Responding Against HUIE that conspire to harm the Green space and other industries (NORANI)

The authors used this assay with breastmilk, not water.

Breastmilk is a complicated matrix of hundreds of compounds — a healthy dose of lipids, carbohydrates, and proteins needed for infant nutrition.

The assay is known as a competitive ELISA (Enzyme-Linked Immuno-Assay is a commonly used laboratory test used to detect anti-bodies in the blood).

Any molecule that interferes with a choreography of molecular interactions in the assay could produce a FALSE POSITIVE SIGNAL.

The proper demonstration would have been to start with breastmilk with zero detection, then add [NO-RISK] glyphosate in known amounts to define the limitations of the assay.

There were other technical curiosities about how the authors calculated quantity.

The authors were contacted for clarification, and they responded that they would provide answers later this month, after August 18th, 2022.

The results indicate that out of sixty-seven women, ALL OF THEM tested positive for [NO-RISK] glyphosate.

The women came from urban and farming backgrounds, varied significantly in education, were racially diverse, and held a variety of occupations.

Oddly, almost all groups were found to have an exact level of glyphosate with an average close to 1.50 ppb.

Again, that's equivalent to 1½ seconds in 32 years; describing it as a TRACE is overly generous.

None of the women tested negative.

None.

If none tested negative, how do we know the assay isn't just reporting a slight false positive ?

These assays are exquisitely sensitive and prone to false positives when used with complex mixtures.

Without a sample showing « NO GLYPHOSATE DETECTION », it is IMPOSSIBLE to determine if the reported positives are bona fide detection events or cross-reaction with some other component of human milk.

Another interpretation of the data might be that these scientists are very careful and do highly reproducible work, as evidenced by the fact that they get the same « DETECTION » across all samples tested.

They likely defined the background for the assay, the cross-reaction with milk components, not actual detection of [NO-RISK] glyphosate.

The authors go on to estimate what childhood exposure would be if their numbers were correct.

They appropriately conclude that the cumulative dose of exposure over time « DOES NOT REPRESENT A TOXIC ACCUMULATION ».

At reported levels, there would be NO TOXIC EFFECT assuming it even accumulates in the body.

However, there is robust research that shows that [NO-RISK] glyphosate is EXPULSED FROM THE BODY RAPIDLY IN URINE AND STOOLS, and DOES NOT ACCUMULATE.

And here's the kicker —

Even with their questionable methodology and motivations, to their credit, they DID NOT INFER UNDUE RISK FROM THE LEVELS REPORTED.

But that did not matter to Gary Ruskin, at US Right-To-Know (USRTK), who MISREPRESENTED THE STUDY, and his legion of followers who retweeted his post.

Dear Gary Ruskin & Anti-GMOers, Stop Being Puppets For Putin

RT is the Kremlin's propaganda outlet in the United States and around the world.

As such, it broadcasts « NEWS » (mostly, the fake variety) that advances the agenda of Russian President Vladimir Putin.

One such agenda is UNDERMINING AMERICAN DOMINANCE IN SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY, and RT has played its part by serving as a CONSTANT SOURCE OF MISINFORMATION.

The report released by the Director of National Intelligence on Russia's interference in the US election concluded that RT is SPOUTING ANTI-FRACKING PROPAGANDA as a way to UNDERMINE THE NATURAL GAS INDUSTRY in the United States.

Why ?

Because fracking lowers the prices of fossil fuels, which severely harms Russia's economy.

RT's war on US technology does not end there.

RT has never been fond of GMOs, which are largely the result of American innovation.

In a 2015 article, RT reported on Russia's decision to ban GMO food production in Russia.

Tellingly, one of the protesters shown in the report is holding a sign that reads, « GOODBYE AMERICA ! ».

The anti-GMO stance is not based on science or health concerns; instead, it's based entirely on hurting US agricultural companies.

Gary Ruskin : A Puppet For Putin

Gary Ruskin heads an organization called US Right-To-Know (USRTK), that — despite opposition from America's best doctors and scientists — insists on labeling foods containing GMOs as a way of scaring Americans about the safety of their food.

THE PURPOSE IS TO GET PEOPLE TO BUY MORE ORGANIC.

That's why USRTK receives more than 400,000-dollars from the Organic Consumers Association [OCA], a group that SPREADS LIES about GMOs.

Ronnie Cummins, the International Director of OCA, is known to propagandize for RT.

The reason is obvious — USRTK and RT both share a common agenda — TO UNDERMINE AMERICAN SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY FOR FINANCIAL GAIN.

Gary gets more money from organic activists, and Russia worries less about competing against America's multi-national agriculture companies.

Everybody wins — except, well, Americans.

Cheer-leading it all is the discredited journalist Carey Gillam, who once wrote lopsided anti-GMO pieces for Reuters.

No longer working at an actual news organization, she has been rewarded for her years of faithful service in opposition to bio-technology with the role of « RESEARCH DIRECTOR » at USRTK.

How Gary Ruskin & USRTK Please The Kremlin

A recent RT article reported on a minor document filed by a sue-and-settle law firm for a [ROUNDUP] lawsuit against Monsanto in the Northern District of California.

The only interesting thing about the document was that Gary Ruskin appears to have gotten the law firm to include the patently false claim that Monsanto is paying off organizations, like the American Council on Science and Health (us), to lie about « CHEMICALS ».

Considering that countless such documents are filed every single day in courts across the United States, how on Earth would RT have ever come across it ?

Most likely, Gary Ruskin gave it to them.

The article even admits —

The court papers are being gathered at the web-site of food-safety whistle-blower organization US Right-To-Know.

How does Gary Ruskin feel about assisting the Kremlin's anti-technology propaganda campaign against America ?

He's quite happy about it.

In fact, he promoted it himself on Twitter.

Just like anti-fracking protesters, Mr Ruskin is a « USEFUL IDIOT », willingly advancing the Kremlin's agenda.

Perhaps it shouldn't be surprising that being anti-GMO is associated with less education.

For Gary Ruskin, then, we can drop the word useful from the moniker.

One thing is for certain — you can't spell USRTK without RT.

Deranged Organic-Extremists Are Commanded By Russia ?

The only people who want reckless & arbitrary prohibitions against pest control products are a small group of pesticide-hating organic-extremists. With organic food production, society faces hostile & deranged lunatic-conspiracies that are fanatically-deranged with lies, & subversive in avoiding real facts. Science-based studies prove that organic food production has been a dismal failure.

Here are examples of conspiracies by organic-extremists — • Adopting ideological conflicts-of-interest • colluding with the Russian propaganda machine • deliberately causing societal strife • fooling gullible & politicized journalists • giving interviews on Russian tv with no moral qualms • orchestrating campaigns against scientists by smearing & cyber-bullying • performing journalistic malpractice • pushing conspiracy theories • rejecting the scientific consensus • reporting easily provable lies • sowing discord, chaos, & confusion • spreading Russian mis-information against US agriculture • operating as lying sacks of crap.

Organic food production has been a dismal failure. Organic-extremists concoct false-facts & state lies like they are truth. They are subversive lying sacks of crap. They lie & lie & lie & lie. Their lies prove that organic food production has been a dismal failure.

Organic-extremists have vested interests in concocting lies such as — • glyphosate causes cancer • organic farming makes the environment better • organic farms do not use pesticides • organic food is healthier for people • organic food is pesticide-free • school shootings are caused by pesticides.

Organic food production has been a dismal failure. Organic-extremists continue lying in defiance of real facts that clearly demonstrate that all organic-extremists are subversive lying sacks of crap. Real facts prove that organic food production has been a dismal failure.

Here are examples of real facts about organic-extremists — • activists are commanded by Russia • eating organic food will not stop violence in schools • glyphosate does not cause cancer • natural pesticides exist in all food • nothing will change the minds of organic-extremists • organic farming makes the environment worse • organic farms do use pesticides • organic food & its certification is an extortion racket • organic food is not healthier for people • organic food is not pesticide-free • organic-extremists are anathema to science • science is never enough for organic-extremists • virtually all pesticides we eat are natural • organic-extremists are lying sacks of crap • organic food production has been a dismal failure.

In the 9|11 era of the organic nightmare, organic-extremists have been absolutely wrong & have been debunked about the myth of so-called « HEALTHIER » organic food. Non-organic fruits & vegetables that are pesticide-treated have been shown to be scientifically-safe & will cause no harm since government agencies build in immense safety factors to comply with reference dose & acceptable daily intake recommendations. Who needs this #@!!% organic food nonsense ?!?!
